Question 1: Answer to why the person who owns this card chose react:

Student's Answer:

A: We can split our app into multiple components and reuse those components.

Correct Answer:

Because there are reasons listed on this card such as the ability to split an app into multiple components, re-use those components, using a virtual DOM for efficient UI update and managing states and Props that leads to the efficient upgrading variable across various pages.

(As mentioned in the article)

Possible context where the note was utilized:

The person who owns this card could either use it as a reference to guide them through the features and also for drafting the advantages of using React or it may be utilized to teach someone else those utilities of React.

How can the note be better than the typical native American's handwriting:

The differences between the note on index card and the typical native American's handwriting could be due to the fact that the writer of the note may not be a native American and that they might be learning the language and so they might have different styles.

Possible context where the person who wrote this note is using nonprofessional English grammar:

This writing, with the nonprofessional English grammar, may not be intended to be shown to the general public, it might be for personal observations, or as stated earlier, be for use as a teaching tool or conversation topic among non-native English speakers. Another possibility is that the text is an item to sell or giveaway, it would increase its value to someone as opposed to simply writing down information that is known. This is far and away the most possible explanation for this text.
